Lada Kovler is a singer, musician, and educator whose repertoire spans jazz, pop, and folk traditions. She has performed with jazz ensembles and big bands at numerous festivals and concerts, exploring styles from Turkmen folk to contemporary pop and jazz.

Lada founded Harmony, a private music school in Russia (2016–2020) that served over 300 students and produced seasonal concerts with live musicians.

After relocating to the United States, she earned a degree from Berklee College of Music in Interdisciplinary Music Studies and is currently pursuing an M.M. in Jazz Pedagogy at the University of Miami Frost School of Music.

She teaches voice and piano in Miami Beach and produces music for emerging artists, including Oskar Viniar.

KIND HEART (2023)

The song was written when Oskar saw on TV what happened to George Floyd. He was just eight years old. He didn’t know much about racism and human hatred and was confused and sad... Oskar shared his feelings with his family, and they advised him to put it on a piece of paper. He recorded it with the pianist Juan Tobon, and the production was made by Lada Kovler. Soft piano and angelic voice best describe Oskar’s wish for everyone to be kind to each other. Because kind hearts can make a difference.

Oskar Viniar has won the Young Artist Academy award with the song “Kind Heart.”

In My Own Words

I have two passions that can describe me best, music and human emotion. I love music because it can explain things better than speech, and human emotion is how we communicate from person to person. Music is like oxygen for many, as it is for me. Combining music with human emotion gives me the power I use to express myself now and for nearly thirty years of my life. When I hear the music of others, I recognize its power and better understand that person, regardless of whether it is a classical piece or another genre. When I play the piano, I tell my story, and the first words of my song communicate my feelings and thoughts to the listener. Such music helps us make connections between each other and our emotions.

When writing music, I write about mutual feelings and healing. Chords, melodies, key signatures, lyrics, etc., are all considered by way of stories, both personal and observed by others. In particular, being "loud" allows me to express the energy I have, allowing me to release any demons, something that we perhaps all need to do occasionally. The pitch and sound of my music allow the listener to join me on a roller coaster of emotion, both positive and negative, which I reflect through my songs and the playing of other people's music too. I am concurrently working on my own songs and helping my son write and sing music. Helping my son learn to explore his emotions through music, helps me when writing and creating my own songs, as I try to follow the steps I give him. I try to use my life's meaningful experiences to think of something I want to tell people about and the exploration of these topics with my son helps me further develop ideas. With all of this I have more inspiration to write and sing songs I am currently working on, that reflects my triumphs over hardships faced in life.
